Stillwater Lake Dam Renovation Update - Spring 2011

Stillwater Lake at Camp Minsi is Refilling!

Dam construction nears completion. Construction on the Stillwater Lake Dam has moved into its final phase. The weather has finally started to cooperate. The large spillway is completed and the 300 foot long roller compacted concrete dam is nearly complete. The best news of all is that Stillwater Lake is now refilling for the summer camping season!

Construction was slowed by wetter than expected weather during fall and winter. As a result, the lake completely refilled during some of the storms that hit the area. With a little cooperation from the weather, construction will wrap up soon and the lake refilled in just a few weeks.

Additional fundraising to cover the remaining construction costs is taking place. Thank you to all the municipalities, organizations, legislators, public officials and individuals who helped with this project.

Special Notice

Camp Minsi will remain open to all Scout units with camping reservations. The construction areas are closed to all campers (no access allowed). Camp Minsi is closed to all other visitors during the dam construction.

Safety first ... always!

Reservations for the 2011 camping season are filling up, so be sure to register for summer camp soon. Enjoy the lake and everything that Camp Minsi has to offer!
