

Boy Scout Camping VS Cub Scout Camping @ Jambo 100

Because of BSA regulations and the obvious age and maturity levels in youth, the camping areas are set up in distinct, separate locations for Cubs Scouts and Boy Scouts.

The Cub Scout area is also referred to as Family Camping. In this area, a family member is responsible for their child. An entire family can camp together. Packs will also be separated into the same general area.

The Boy Scout area is designed for Troops to camp with each other. This is not a family camping area. Troops will be assigned to spots on a “first come-first serve” basis.

While these groups will be sleeping in separate campsites, Packs and Troops are welcome to visit and join each other for meals

Should you have any questions about camping areas, please contact one of respective camping chairs below.

Boy Scout Camping	Brian O’Leary	commissioner4forks@verizon.net
Cub Camping	Mike Gaugler	gauglerm@rcn.com